Co-authors: Stevan Savić, Dragan Milošević

Other details of the presentation: Session CL2.8 – Urban climate, urban biometeorology, and science tools for cities

Outcome of the conference participation

Poster presentations were held in the Hall X5 to the audience from the different fields of urban climate and biometeorology research. After the presentation there were a few questions about the methodology applied to the measurement process. As a part of contribution to FAIRNESS Cost Action, the results of the work of members of WG1 were presented in the study that compares thermal conditions in different Balkan cities during the summer season, using in situ micrometeorological measurements. Furthermore, the audience members were invited to join the FAIRNESS Cost Action. The topic was presented to the colleagues from Croatia, Belgium, Germany, Sweden, United States at the coffee breaks, where discussion continued. Several new contacts expressed the willingness to collaborate in the future.
